

A group of people are gathered around a long table outdoors. The table is covered with newspapers and has several white rectangular boards or canvases on it. One woman in a red sleeveless top is leaning over the table, possibly demonstrating something. Another woman in a teal shirt is looking at something on the table. In the background, other people are standing and talking, some holding plates of food. The setting appears to be a park or a similar outdoor area with trees and a paved path.
